+ COORDINATED OFFICE CLEARANCE

FURNITURE CLEARANCE. TRADE INTERFACES. ONE ACCOUNTABLE SCOPE.

ASI connected furniture clearance with defined electrical, signage and wall-preparation responsibilities in one workplace-transition assignment.

CLEAR
FURNITURE SCOPE

CONNECT
TRADE INTERFACES

PREPARE
AFFECTED WALLS

OVERVIEW

CHALLENGE

An office transition requires more than removing desks. Furniture clearance must be coordinated with the services, signage and wall interfaces that remain behind.

ASI APPROACH

ASI connected the origin-office furniture scope with defined electrical and finish responsibilities, including cubicle disconnect coordination, conference-power interfaces and affected-wall patch work.

RESULTS

- Movable-furniture clearance visible in rooms.
- Corridor circulation cleared of furniture.
- Existing services and finishes remain visible.

CUSHMAN & WAKEFIELD

At Cushman & Wakefield's Diamond Bar office, furniture removal intersected with cubicle power, conference-room electrical interfaces, signage and affected-wall work. ASI brought these responsibilities into one defined origin-office scope.

PROJECT INFO

CLIENT
Cushman & Wakefield

LOCATION
Diamond Bar, California

PROJECT
Origin-office clearance

SCOPE
Furniture and trade interfaces

DELIVERY
Wall-preparation coordination

STATUS
Depicted furniture clearance

+ FIELD EXECUTION

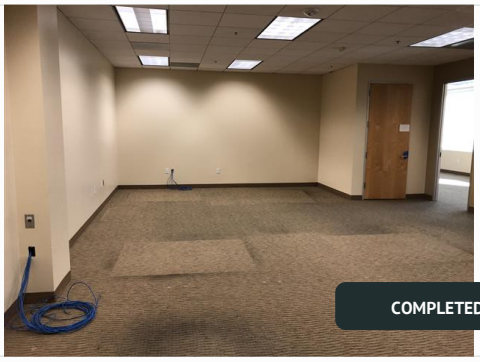

OFFICE CONTEXT.
DEFINED CLEARANCE RESULTS.

Distinct office views show furniture before clearance and the cleared room and corridor conditions. The result shown is furniture clearance, with retained services and existing finishes visible.

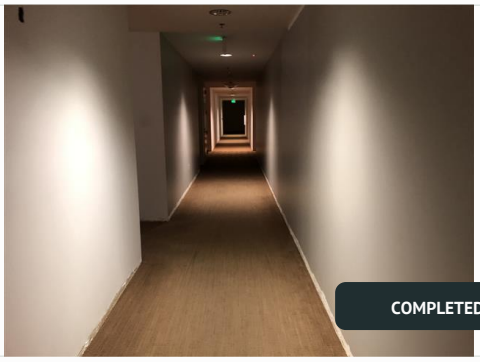

OFFICE FURNITURE | BEFORE

A distinct office view establishes furniture and storage context before clearance.

ROOM FURNITURE CLEARANCE | COMPLETED

Cleared office floor with retained blue cabling and existing carpet wear.

CORRIDOR FURNITURE CLEARANCE | COMPLETED

Clear circulation with existing flooring and wall-base conditions visible.

ONE ACCOUNTABLE WORKPLACE–TRANSITION SCOPE

One accountable partner connected the furniture, electrical and wall-preparation interfaces within a clearly defined workplace transition. Plan your workplace transition with one accountable partner.

ASICOINC.COM | PROJECTS@ASICOINC.COM